Course Description:

FEMA recognizes the need to tie training programs to an established set of emergency management competencies and to a Career Development Program. This is done through a progressive training and education system that includes the entry-level National Emergency Management Basic Academy.

The Emergency Management Institute, in conjunction with the National Emergency Management Association; the International Association of Emergency Managers; and state, local, territorial, and tribal emergency management professionals have established training objectives to meet the professional development needs of emergency managers.

The following topics in emergency management are covered in this course:

- legal issues
- intergovernmental and interagency context
- influencing and organizing
- social vulnerability issues

- collaboration, preparedness, and team-building
- mitigation, response, recover, prevention, and protection
- ethical decision-making
- technology
- administration
- the future

It is mandatory that participants complete the 45 hours of IS pre-requisite courses, as well as, the 40 hours classroom instruction in order to receive full credit for the course. Not meeting these requirements will result in participants needing to re-take the entire classroom portion of the course.

Course Goal:

Upon completion of this course, students will have a basic knowledge of the doctrine and authorities of emergency management, the role of the emergency manager, and an overview of disaster response.

Prerequisites:

Eleven online independent study courses are required as prerequisites to the classroom course. All eleven must be completed before attending the classroom portion of the course. Proof of completion of these online courses is required.
