NOTE: The E0102 Science of Disaster course is delivered at the Emergency Management Institute (EMI) during the same week with E0103 Planning: Emergency Operations. Students are required to apply for the two courses for the same week. Both courses can be listed on the same application.

Course Description:

This course in the National Emergency Management Basic Academy is designed to provide the student with an overview of scientific principles and concepts that shape our increasingly dangerous world. The contents of the course include principles of earth science; atmospheric science; and chemical, biological, radiological, nuclear and explosives science.

Course Goal:

At completion of this course, students will have a basic understanding of scientific principles which govern the world around us and control how hazards and disasters unfold.

Course Length:

Three days (five days when taken with E0103).

Prerequisite:

E0101 Foundations of Emergency Management

Continuing Education Units (CEU's):

EMI awards 2.4 CEUs for completion of this course.

Target Audience:

This course is intended for newly appointed emergency managers from state, local, territorial, tribal, and Federal emergency management agencies, and prospective professionals transferring from another discipline to emergency management. Veteran emergency managers willing to mentor are also welcome to apply.

Location:

National Emergency Training Center (NETC)
Emergency Management Institute
Emmitsburg, Maryland
