APPENDIX B

VOLUNTARY AGENCIES ACTIVE IN THE UNITED STATES

The following agencies often play such a major role in disasters that a brief description is in order.

The Adventist Community Services (ACS) receives, processes, and distributes clothing, bedding, and food products. In major disasters, the agency brings in mobile distribution units filled with bedding and packaged clothing that is presorted according to size, age, and gender. ACS also provides emergency food and counseling and participates in the cooperative disaster child care program.

The American Radio Relay League, Inc. (ARRL) is a national volunteer organization of licensed radio amateurs in the United States. ARRL-sponsored Amateur Radio Emergency Services (ARES) provide volunteer radio communications services to Federal, State, county, and local governments, as well as to voluntary agencies. When telephone and power grids are knocked out, members volunteer not only their services but also their privately owned radio communications equipment.

The American Red Cross is required by Congressional charter to undertake disaster relief activities to ease the suffering caused by a disaster. Emergency assistance includes fixed/mobile feeding stations, shelter, cleaning supplies, comfort kits, first aid, blood and blood products, food, clothing, emergency transportation, rent, home repairs, household items, crisis intervention, and medical supplies. Additional assistance for long-term recovery may be provided when other relief assistance and/or personal resources are not adequate to meet disaster-caused needs. The American Red Cross provides referrals to the government and other agencies providing disaster assistance.

The America's Second Harvest collects, transports, warehouses, and distributes donated food and grocery items for other charitable agencies involved in direct feeding operations and the distribution of relief supplies through its network of food banks and food rescue organizations. America's Second Harvest also processes products collected in food drives by communities wishing to help the disaster-affected community. America's Second Harvest is fully domestic in scope and practice.

The Ananda Marga Universal Relief Team (AMURT) renders immediate medical care, food and clothing distribution, stress management, and community and social services. AMURT also provides long-term development assistance and sustainable economic programs to help disaster-affected people. AMURT depends primarily on full- and part-time volunteer help, and has a large volunteer base to draw on worldwide. AMURT provides and encourages disaster services training in conjunction with other relief agencies like the American Red Cross.

The Catholic Charities USA Disaster Response is the organization that unites the social services agencies operated by most of the 175 Catholic dioceses in the United States. The Disaster Response section of Catholic Charities USA provides assistance to communities in addressing the crisis and recovery needs of local families. Catholic Charities agencies emphasize ongoing and long-term recovery services for individuals and families, including temporary housing assistance for low income families, counseling programs for children and the elderly, and special counseling for disaster relief workers.

The Christian Disaster Response (CDR) worked in cooperation with the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Church World Service Disaster Response, and NOVAD to enable local church members to become effective volunteers for assignment on national disasters. CDR provides disaster assessments, fixed/mobile feeding facilities, and in-kind disaster relief supplies. CDR also coordinates and stockpiles the collection of donated goods through their regional centers throughout the U.S.

The Christian Reformed World Relief Committee (CRWRC) has the overall aim of assisting churches in the disaster-affected community to respond to the needs of persons within that community. CRWRC provides advocacy services to assist disaster victims in finding permanent, long-term solutions to their disaster-related problems, as well as housing repair and construction, needs assessment, clean-up, child care, and other recovery services.

The Church of the Brethren Emergency Response/Service Ministries supports disaster response by sending teams of skilled volunteers to clean up debris and repair or rebuild homes for disaster survivors in need. Disaster Child Care (DCC) provides specially trained volunteers to comfort and care for traumatized children at disaster sites and following aviation incidents. DCC volunteers come from many different denominations.

The Church World Service (CWS) Emergency Response Program builds structure to assist disaster survivors and promotes mitigation and disaster planning/training in the United States on behalf of its 36-member communions and other affiliated agencies. CWS Disaster Response and Recovery Liaisons (DRRLs) foster and support the development of community-based disaster recovery organizations. In disaster response, upon request CWS will provide direct material support such as blankets and health, school, clean-up, and infant supplies.

The Episcopal Church Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief responds to domestic disasters principally through its network of nearly 100 U.S. dioceses and over 8,200 parishes. It also sends immediate relief grants for such basics as food, water, medical assistance, and financial aid within the first 90 days following a disaster. Ongoing recovery activities are provided through rehabilitation grants, which offer the means to rebuild, replant ruined crops, and counsel those in trauma. The Episcopal Church works primarily through Church World Service in providing its disaster-related services.

The Friends Disaster Service (FDS) provides clean-up and rebuilding assistance to the elderly, disabled, low income, or uninsured survivors of disasters. It also provides an outlet for Christian service to Friends' volunteers, with an emphasis on love and caring. In most cases, FDS is unable to provide building materials and, therefore, looks to other NVOAD member agencies for these materials.

The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) supports the Nation in times of emergency with its comprehensive approach to protecting animals in disaster through disaster response and rescue training as well as preparedness education and community planning. The HSUS provides needed support directly to communities during disasters through its Disaster Animal Response Teams (DARTs) that provide rescue, sheltering, and first aid and evaluation of animals, donation and volunteer management, and incident management. The HSUS also offers practical information for emergency managers, voluntary agencies, and animal care and control agencies about disaster plans that include animals.

The International Association of Jewish Vocational Services (IAJVS) is an affiliation of 26 U.S., Canadian, and Israeli Jewish Employment and Vocational and Family Services agencies that provides a broad spectrum of training and employment initiatives needed in disaster. Some of these specific services include vocational evaluation, career counseling, skills training, and job placement. In addition to providing vocational services, IAJVS is also involved in problems of drug and alcohol abuse programs for the homeless, specialized services for welfare recipients, and workshops for disabled individuals.

The International Relief Friendship Foundation, Inc. (IRFF) provides disaster assistance through three main strategies. First, IRFF conducts an assessment of needs/unmet needs through a systematic canvassing of affected communities and neighborhoods. Second, IRFF provides appropriate spiritual care to all victims of disaster through personnel trained in disaster care and relief. Third, IRFF provides volunteer support for the initial clean-up phase of the disaster through its network of individuals, families, and independent clergy and their congregations. IRFF places particular emphasis on those sectors of a community that may be hidden or unnoticed and therefore unaware of how to access disaster relief.

The Lutheran Disaster Response (LDR) provides for immediate disaster response, in both natural and technological disasters, long-term rebuilding efforts, and support for preparedness planning through synods, districts, and social ministry organizations. The disasters to which LDR responds are those in which needs outstrip available local resources. LDR provides for the coordination of 6,000 volunteers annually. In addition, LDR provides crisis counseling, support groups, mental health assistance, and pastoral care through its accredited social service agencies.

Mennonite Disaster Services assists disaster victims by providing volunteer personnel to clean up and remove debris from damaged and destroyed homes and personal property and to repair or rebuild homes. Special emphasis is placed on assisting those less able to help themselves, such as the elderly and handicapped.

The National Emergency Response Team (NERT) meets the basic human needs of shelter, food, and clothing during times of crisis and disaster. NERT provides Emergency Mobile Trailer units (EMTUs), which are self-contained, modest living units for up to 8-10 people, to places where disaster occurs. When EMTUs are not in use, they serve as mobile teaching units used in Emergency Preparedness programs in communities.

The National Organization for Victim Assistance provides social and mental health services for individuals and families who experience major trauma after disaster, including critical incident debriefings.

The Nazarene Disaster Response provides clean-up and rebuilding assistance, especially to the elderly, disabled, widowed, and those least able to help themselves. In addition, a National Crisis Counseling Coordinator works into the recovery phase by assisting with the emotional needs of disaster victims.

The Northwest Medical Teams International supports the lead voluntary agencies responding to disaster situations by enlisting volunteers as needed to the stricken areas and sending money and supplies for cleaning and reconstruction.

The Phoenix Society for Burn Survivors is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization whose mission is to provide support to those affected by a burn injury through peer support, education, collaboration, and advocacy. The Phoenix Society's goal is to assure that all burn survivors have access to the support systems necessary for their recovery. The Society encourages and supports activities that bring survivors together to learn and grow from their common experiences.

The Points of Light Foundation coordinates spontaneous, unaffiliated volunteers and meets the needs of the local community and other disaster response agencies through its affiliated network of local Volunteer Centers.

The Presbyterian Disaster Assistance (PDA) is the crisis ministry of the Presbyterian Church (USA). PDA seeks to work cooperatively with other voluntary organizations through NVOAD. When a major disaster occurs, response by PDA may include the following: human resources, volunteer clean-up and rebuilding teams, financial resources, material resources, food and shelter, and pastoral care.

The REACT International provides emergency communication facilities for other agencies through its national network of Citizens Band radio operators and volunteer teams. REACT teams are encouraged to become part of their local disaster preparedness plan. Furthermore, they are encouraged to take first aid training and to become proficient in communications in time of disaster.

The Salvation Army provides emergency assistance including mass and mobile feeding, temporary shelter, counseling, missing person services, medical assistance, and distribution of donated goods including food, clothing, and household items. It also provides referrals to government and private agencies for special services.

The Second Harvest National Network of Food Banks collects, transports, warehouses, and distributes donated food and grocery items for other charitable agencies involved in direct feeding operations and the distribution of relief supplies through its network of food banks and food rescue organizations. America's Second Harvest also processes products collected in food drives by communities wishing to help the disaster-affected community. America's Second Harvest is fully domestic in scope and practice.

The Society of St. Vincent De Paul provides social services to individuals and families, and collects and distributes donated goods. It operates retail stores, homeless shelters, and feeding facilities that are similar to those run by the Salvation Army. The stores' merchandise can be made available to disaster victims. Warehousing facilities are used for storing and sorting donated merchandise during the emergency period.

The Southern Baptist Disaster Relief provides more than 200 mobile feeding units staffed by volunteers who can prepare and distribute thousands of meals a day. Active in providing disaster childcare, the agency has several mobile childcare units. Southern Baptists also assist with clean-up activities, temporary repairs, reconstruction, counseling, and bilingual services.

The UJA Federations of North America organizes direct assistance, such as financial and social services, to Jewish and general communities in the U.S. following disaster. It also provides rebuilding services to neighborhoods and enters into long-term recovery partnerships with residents.

The United Methodist Committee on Relief provides funding for local units in response and recovery projects based on the needs of each situation. This agency also provides spiritual and emotional care to disaster victims and long-term care of children impacted by disaster.

The United States Service Command provides trained corps of volunteers to voluntary and governmental agencies during disaster.

The Volunteers in Technical Assistance provides telecommunications and management information systems support to the emergency management community.

The Volunteers of America is involved in initial response services aimed at meeting the critical needs of disaster victims, such as making trucks available for transporting victims and supplies to designated shelters. It also collects and distributes donated goods and provides mental health care for survivors of disaster.

The World Vision procures high quality gifts-in-kind throughout the United States, and distributes those goods to disaster survivors through community distribution centers. It also identifies under-served neighborhoods and works with unaffiliated faith-based organizations to mobilize response efforts by providing training and cash grants.

GLOSSARY

Declaration	The President's decision to make Federal assistance available under the Stafford Act.
Disaster Field Office (DFO)	The office established in or near the designated area to support Federal and State response and recovery operations. The DFO houses the Federal Coordinating Officer, the Emergency Response Team, and where possible, the State Coordinating Officer and support staff.
Disaster Recovery Center (DRC)	A temporary facility where, under one roof, local and State governments and voluntary agencies provide information about disaster assistance programs.
Emergency Operations Plan or Emergency Response Plan	A document that contains information on the actions that may be taken by a governmental jurisdiction to protect people and property before, during, and after a disaster.
Federal Coordinating Officer (FCO)	The person appointed by the FEMA Director, or in his/her absence, the FEMA Deputy Director, or alternatively the FEMA Associate Director for Response and Recovery, following a declaration of a major disaster or of an emergency by the President, to coordinate Federal assistance.
Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA)	The Federal Emergency Management Agency manages the President's Disaster Relief Fund and coordinates the disaster assistance activities of all Federal agencies in the event of a Presidential disaster declaration.

Federal Response Plan

The FRP is the Federal government's plan of action for assisting affected States and local jurisdictions in the event of a major disaster or emergency. As the implementing document for the Stafford Act, the FRP organizes the Federal response by grouping potential response requirements into 12 functional categories, called Emergency Support Functions. The FRP was completed in April 1992, revised in April 1999, and 27 Federal departments and agencies are signatories to the plan.

FEMA-State Agreement

A formal legal document between FEMA and the affected State that describes the understandings, commitments, and binding conditions for assistance applicable as a result of a declaration by the President. It is signed by the FEMA Regional Director and the Governor.

Governor

As defined by the Stafford Act, the chief executive of any State.

Grant

Financial aid given by certain Federal, State, and private agencies to help meet disaster-related necessary expenses or needs when affected individuals cannot meet such expenses or needs through insurance or other means.

Helpline

Toll-free telephone services established by FEMA that provide help to an individual to determine the status of his or her application for assistance.

Individual Assistance

Supplementary Federal assistance provided under the Stafford Act to individuals and families adversely affected by a major disaster or an emergency. Such assistance may be provided directly by the Federal government or through State and local governments or disaster relief organizations.

Major Disaster

As defined in the Stafford Act, “Any natural catastrophe (including any hurricane, tornado, storm, high water, wind-driven water, tidal wave, earthquake, tsunami, volcanic eruption, landslide, mudslide, snowstorm, or drought), or, regardless of cause, any fire, flood, or explosion in any part of the United States, which in the determination of the President causes damage of sufficient severity and magnitude to warrant major disaster assistance under this Act to supplement the efforts and available resources of States, local governments, and disaster relief organizations in alleviating the damage, loss, hardship, or suffering caused thereby.”

National Processing Service Center (NPSC)

The National Processing Service Centers (NPSCs) perform a range of functions related to application processing, verification, and close-out. Key among these functions is teleregistration – contact with disaster-affected individuals via telephone for the purpose of identifying needs, determining eligibility for assistance, and completing an application for assistance. The NPSCs also schedule inspectors to verify damage, and manage assistance records associated with an incident.

Preliminary Damage Assessment (PDA)

A process used to determine the impact and magnitude of damage and the resulting unmet needs of individuals, businesses, the public sector, and the community as a whole. Information collected as a result of the PDA process is used by the State as a basis for the Governor's request for Federal assistance under the Stafford Act, and by FEMA to document the recommendation made to the President in response to the Governor's request.

Preparedness

Those activities, programs, and systems that exist prior to an emergency that are used to support and enhance response to an emergency or disaster.

Public Assistance (PA)

Supplementary Federal assistance provided under the Stafford Act to State and local governments or certain private, nonprofit organizations other than assistance for the direct benefit of individuals and families. Public assistance also includes Community Disaster Loans and Fire Suppression Grants.

Stafford Act

The Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, which provides the greatest single source of Federal disaster assistance.

State Coordinating Officer
(SCO)

The person appointed by the Governor, upon a declaration of a major disaster or of an emergency, to coordinate State and local disaster assistance efforts with those of the Federal government, and to act in cooperation with the Federal Coordinating Officer to administer disaster recovery efforts.

The American Red Cross publishes many materials for use in helping the public prepare for and respond appropriately when disaster strikes. The publications cover general topics of family disaster preparedness, as well as specific hazards such as hurricanes, floods, tornadoes, and terrorism. A complete index of all available materials can be found on the Red Cross web site by visiting www.redcross.org/pubs/dspubs/cde.html. Your local American Red Cross chapter also may have developed publications specifically tailored to your area. Check with your local chapter for available publications.
