24th Annual
Emergency Management Higher Education Symposium
June 6–9, 2022

Call for Student Volunteers
National Emergency Training Center (NETC)
Emmitsburg, Maryland

Master’s and Doctoral students currently enrolled in a college/university emergency management or homeland security program are needed as student volunteers for the 24th Annual Emergency Management Higher Education (HiEd) Symposium.

Students will be assigned to two or more breakout sessions to monitor classroom participation. One or more students will be assigned to assist the HiEd Program Manager and HiEd Program Assistant throughout the week.

Additional Responsibilities
- Assist with Symposium registration
- Pass out microphones during sessions
- Hand out folders
- Take hard copies of presentation materials to classrooms
- Help encourage social distancing
- Collect general Symposium evaluation feedback
- Any other administrative duties

Benefits of Participation
- Gain valuable network experience
- Participation in Symposium activities
- One-on-one conversations with notable faculty
- Recognition in the newsletter
- Thank you letter for service

Student is responsible for paying their own transportation costs to and from the Symposium. Note: There is a free shuttle from BWI airport to NETC campus on Sunday evening and from campus to the airport on Friday morning. Housing will be provided.

Questions/Contact
For more information, and to apply contact the HiEd Program Support Assistant, Barbara Johnson: Barbara.Johnson3@fema.dhs.gov

To Apply
- Student must have a sponsoring faculty member send a recommendation email to: Barbara.Johnson3@fema.dhs.gov
- Student must be at least 18 years of age.
- Student must be a Master’s or Doctoral student.

Application Deadline
The period for submissions will open January 31, 2022. All applications are due April 18, 2022. Applications will not be accepted after this date.

Attendance
Student must be able to participate in the entire four-day Symposium.

Student volunteers are required to attend all workshops, morning plenary and breakout sessions. The typical volunteer obligations comprise about 20% of the Symposium. When not acting as a volunteer, students are encouraged to attend any of the other breakout sessions.