Homeland Security and Terrorism Institute of Long Island University – Online Graduate-Level Advanced Certificate in Homeland Security Management

The Homeland Security and Terrorism Institute of Long Island University is recognized as the nation’s leading private institution for graduate-level education in the field of Homeland Security Management. In H.R.1 (Implementing the Recommendations of the 9/11 Commission Act of 2007), Congress designated the Homeland Security and Terrorism Institute as a DHS National Transportation Security Center of Excellence, making it the only DHS Center of Excellence to offer a graduate degree in the Homeland Security field. Both the 15-credit graduate-level Advanced Certificate in Homeland Security Management and the 36-credit Master of Science in Homeland Security Management degree are academically rigorous and professionally relevant, and both are delivered entirely in an asynchronous online format designed to accommodate the busy schedules of active professionals.

The five courses that comprise the graduate-level Advanced Certificate in Homeland Security Management are also the core curriculum of our 36-credit Master of Science in Homeland Security Management degree, and are fully applicable to that degree.
