

New England College – Master of Arts in Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness

Master of Arts in Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness (MAHSEP)

The 36 credit MAHSEP curriculum focuses on the intersection between homeland security policy and politics by taking advantage of faculty who are scholar practitioners in the world of homeland security, emergency management, and strategic planning. Students will gain an understanding of the intellectual foundations for key policy discussions in homeland security as well as the basic threats to homeland security, the basic responses, and how the political process impacts homeland security decision making. All courses are 4 credits.
