Notre Dame College of Ohio - Bachelor of Arts in Emergency Management and Policy Studies

Notre Dame College Department of Public Service and Security Studies is introducing its Bachelor of Arts degree in Emergency Management and Policy Studies starting in fall of 2018. Notre Dame’s on-campus career-focused liberal arts major includes seminars in the interaction of roles, responsibilities and relationships as well as instruction in the societal concerns, legal, professional and ethical responsibilities of this diverse and dynamic discipline. Coursework in the new major at Notre Dame covers technology, social media and emergency operations and crisis leadership, as well as classes in the principles of emergency management; disaster relief and recovery; and planning, risk analysis and threat assessment. Students in the four-year program also complete an internship prior to graduation to gain work experience needed for employment.
