University of Albany and The College of Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security and Cybersecurity offers a Certificate of Graduate Study in Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security and Cybersecurity. The program is designed to prepare students with undergraduate degrees or previously completed master's degrees who are interested in studying more directly and extensively for service in the fields of emergency preparedness, homeland security, and cybersecurity to be more competitive when seeking jobs in government, non-profits, and for-profit organizations. The curriculum was designed by University faculty in consultation with law enforcement, intelligence, emergency services, and public management experts to provide graduates with the foundation to become more effective homeland security and cybersecurity professionals and managers.

The Certificate consists of five graduate-level courses (minimum 16 credits). Students may concentrate in one of three tracks: Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security or Cybersecurity.

Required Courses:
