University of Nebraska at Omaha – Online Tribal Management and Emergency Services
Minor and/or Certificate

All Tribal Nations possess inherent rights of self-governance that are expected to simultaneously conduct governmental tribal functions while cooperating and complying with many local, state, and federal government regulations and laws.

This complex system of administration presents many challenges for Native Governments, particularly when faced with natural or manmade disasters that threaten tribal lands and interests. These threats to tribal communities are often compounded by a lack of resources existing in reservation populations. Understanding the complex legal, historical, and cultural issues affecting tribal government management and provision of crisis response is essential to provide routine and emergency services to native communities.

Tribal Management and Emergency Services Certificate (15 hours)
EMGT 1150 Introduction to Tribal Emergency Management
EMGT 2060 Foundational Indian Law and Policy Issues
EMGT 3020 Federal/Tribal Government to Government Relations
EMGT 4020 Protecting and Sustaining Tribal Economies
EMGT 4050 Contemporary Issues in Tribal Management and Emergency Services

Tribal Management and Emergency Services Minor (18 hours)
EMGT 1150 Introduction to Tribal Emergency Management
EMGT 2060 Foundational Indian Law and Policy Issues
EMGT 2500 Disasters and Vulnerable Populations
EMGT 3020 Federal/Tribal Government to Government Relations
EMGT 4020 Protecting and Sustaining Tribal Economies
EMGT 4050 Contemporary Issues in Tribal Management and Emergency Services

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission.

For more information contact:

Lyndsey Rice
Academic Advisor
University of Nebraska at Omaha
School of Public Administration, CPACS 111
Omaha, NE 68182
Phone: (402) 554-4900
Email: lcrice@unomaha.edu

Additional Information:  http://emgt.unomaha.edu

Updated 7/1/2019