Presents Webinar Series- Session VIII

“The role of research in emergency management education: Current status and future directions”

September 28, 2016

3:00 p.m. – 4:00 p.m. EST

Deborah J. Persell, PhD, RN, APN, Director, Regional Center for Disaster Preparedness Education College of Nursing and Health Professions Arkansas State University

Jessica Jensen, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Department of Emergency Management Co-Director, Center for Emergency Management Education and Research (CEMER) North Dakota State University

Description: For more than a decade, members of the emergency management higher education community have discussed the lack of utilization of research in emergency management programs. This webinar will explore the extent to which this is still an issue. It will feature discussion of results of a recent study related to utilization of research by students at Arkansas State University and incorporate webinar attendees in discussing the extent to which those findings are similar to their perceptions and experience at their institutions. The webinar will then discuss efforts that have been undertaken to address research issues in emergency management higher education programs and involve webinar attendees in discussion of what additional efforts ought to be undertaken.
