

Planning Practitioner Program (PPP) FY 2024

Program Goal:

Because of the ever-evolving risk landscape, the aptitude of operational planning professionals to conceptualize and solve future risks has never been more challenging. The Planning Practitioner Program (PPP) goal is to improve the capabilities of emergency management planning. This program of instructor-led courses allows planners to further develop their knowledge, skills, and abilities to perform effectively as lead planners and planning program managers. PPP candidates will apply the concepts learned in the classroom to improve planning activities conducted within their jurisdiction and strengthen the vertical integration of emergency management planning at all levels of government.

Program Description:

The PPP is a series of two instructor-led courses and an online capstone course.

The first in-person course is E0237: Planning Process Theory and Application, and the second in-person course is E0238: Planning Integration and Contemporary Issues, with a focus on operational planning, advanced project management and program management, along with each phase of the six-step planning process. The online course, K0243: Planning Practitioner Capstone, is a virtual course covering an individual project capstone, which is completed within 1 year after the completion of E0238.

PPP candidates work within a collaborative environment on operational planning challenges and establish a network of peers. Candidates are selected from diverse professional backgrounds where they can demonstrate their expertise at all levels of operational planning through in-class teach-backs and the individual Planning Practitioner Capstone Project.

Participants refine and practice skills critical to performing the phases of the planning process, such as mapping the planning landscape, stakeholder selection and engagement, risk analysis, forming solutions, and addressing programmatic issues. Candidates apply the key learning concepts from the PPP curriculum relative to their organizations and their own jurisdictional environments.

If accepted into the program, candidates must complete the courses with their assigned cohort in the following order: E0237, E0238, and K0243. The learner must achieve a minimum passing score of 75% on final knowledge assessments and demonstrate learning in performance assessments and research assignments.
